HER COLLISION. Workmen were engaged all Sunday night in replac ing the two plates in the starboard bow of the Umbria which had been crushed in by the collision with the Iberia. By 9 o'clock yesterday morning the injury had been repaired and the shining coat of new paint over the healed wound was the only indication about the ship that there had been a collision. Vernon H. Brown, the agent of the Cunard Line, said that $200 or $300 would cover the expense of the repairs. The Umbria left her dock a few minutes after 12 o'clock d again headed toward the mouth of the harbor.

Captain McMickan declined to say anything about the collision yesterday before he put to sea. Mr. Brown ridiculed the idea that the steamer was going at full speed or at a rapid rate when the two vessels came together. He said that the time which it had taken for the Umbria to get out to sea indicated that she was moving slower than usual. He thought the Umbria, being of ten times greater tonnage, perhaps, than the Iberia, would have crushed through her if going at the rate of a few miles an hour. He was able to estimate her speed in miles per hour.

SEEKING THE WRECKED STEAMER. When the tugs went out to search for the disabled steamer yesterday she was nowhere to be seen. Sayles, of pilot-boat Caldwell H. Colt, No. 13, told the reporter last evening that he sighted the Iberia Sunday morning at about 10 o'clock. He and Charley Fairgraves boarded her and made an examination of her condition. They found that she was badly settled near the stern and was listing somewhat. The extreme stern, he said, had been cleanly shaven off. Upon opening the hatches they found the cargo apparently not greatly damaged. It was decided, there-fore, that Fairgraves should be left alone on board until tugs could be sent to her. Pilot Sayles was put aboard the steamer Nasmyth. Having docked her, he started back to the wreck on the tug Indian.

The Iberia, however, had evidently gone down, for there was no sign of her at 9 p. m.

After putting Pilot Sayles aboard his steamer, the pilot-boat had returned to the wreck. She was seen to leave there at about dark, so the steamer must have sunk between 5 o'clock and 9 o'clock. Pilot Pairgraves was taken off, for he brought a steamer into harbor yesterday morning and went out again

Pilot Sayres, Captain Sagols and some of the crew of the Iveria went out to look for the steamer again resterday morning, but they could find no trace of Mr. Sayres says that she must have turned, as the went down, for she was listing when he last saw If she had settled straight down her masts would have remained above water, there being not more than ten fathoms of water where she was an-The tugs sent out by the Merritt Wrecking Company Sunday afternoon returned to Staten Island last evening and reported that the steamer could not be found. James W. Elwell & Co. sent out three large tugs yesterday morning, which were alike unsuccessful in their search.

THE IBERIA'S VALUE AND CARGO. James W. Elwell told the reporter yesterday that had not yet decided whether he should try to raise the steamer. The Iberia, he said, was a fine iron steamer, not a "tramp." She was valued at £50,000. the was insured, he thought, but he could not say for what amount. The captain's manifest and papers ad been carried off with the stern. At the British Consulate the reporter was told that no report of the collision had been made there by the captain of the Imbria. It would be made on the other side, as the Imbria. It would be made on the other side, as the Umbria had not cleared again, not having remained in port over twenty-four hours. The French Consulsaid that he had received a report from Captain Sagols, but that as it was official be was not at liberty to make it public.

It was learned at Arnold, Chenev & Co.'s, to whom the Iberia's cargo was consigned, that her freight tonsisted of 28.511 boxes of dates, 1,160 packages of Mocha coffee, 849 bales of wool and 382 goat skinssaide, $130,000. They were unable to tell the amount of insurance, as all the ship's papers had been lost.

A successful musical and literary entertainment, ander the auspices of St. Luke's Guild of Young Men if the Church of the Redeemer, and for the benefit of the new church, was held at the New-York College if Music, No. 163 East Seventieth-st., last evening-the city authorities gave a license to the Church of Redeemer to occupy twelve lots of ground on Fourth-ave., between Eighty-first and Eighty-scond sts., is a site for a church, school-house and parsonage, in S64. Judge O'Gorman, then the Corporation Counsel, uthorized their occupation for that purpose. The Legislature last winter passed a special act to enable the Commissioners to sell the land to the church at private sale, giving due consideration to their equitable laim. The church claims that it is obviously unjust to demand the present price of lots of which they have tad undisturbed and legal occupation for twenty-three he church in its present difficulties. Bishop Poirer is issued a strong appeal to the Episcopalians of this fly to help the Church of the Redeemer, having antounced his willingness to subscribe $250 if forty other thurchmen will contribute an equal amount.

WHAT WILL BECOME OF JESSE HOYT'S MONEY? The death of Helen Marie Hoyt, the widow of fillionaire Jesse Hoyt, that was reported in Sunday's further complicates an already greatly complicated case. Jesse Hoyt's will provided that els wife and only child, Mary Irene Hoyt, should each ceive the income from $1,250,000 during their lives, ind at their death these sums should revert to the istate, which was valued at $8,000,000, and was left w Jesse Hoyt's two brothers and their children there was a provision, however, that Mrs. Hoys tould will $750,000 of the amount left to her to whom she pleased at her death. Miss Hoyt brough suit to break her father's will, but Surrogate ansom, before whom the case was argued, decideigainst her and the case was carried to the Court f Appeals, where it is still pending, and will be ergued next month. Should Miss Hoyt succeed in etting the decision reversed, she will, of course, be he helf of the whole estate, whether her mother left a will or not. But should she be defeated, secomes of vital importance to her whether hother left a will or not; for if not, the $750,000 which she had the disposal reverts to the estate a toes to her uncle and his children. It is not knows yet whether her mother left a will or not.

A NEW PRESBYTERIAN PASTOR, The Rev. Dr. J. H. McIlvain, of Providence, has accepted a call to the Presbyterian Church of the Dovenant, in Park-ave., and will enter on his duties as paster next Sunday. Dr. Mclivain has been for loveral years paster of the Union Congregational hurch of Providence. He presented his formal letter of resignation at that church last Sunday and preached his farewell sermon. Before going to Providence Dr. McIlvain had been paster of a Presbyterian church in this State. He was graduated at Princeton and s a son of Professor McIlvain, of Princeton. He acceeds the Rev. Dr. Marvin R. Vincent, one of the ading Presbyterian elergymen of New-York, who re-red from the Church of the Covenant last year.

Mrs. Emily G. Whitmore, of Woodside, N. J., was reneunced insane yesterday in Brooklyn, and was seed in care of her husband. She was found in the treet at DeKalb and Marcy aves., Brooklyn, on Fri-lay night, raving wildly, and evidently suffering from religious mania. She recently suffered from a severe Illness, and went to Miss Van Wicken, a Christian scientist, of No. 578 Classon-ave., Brooklyn, who freated her, and apparently recovered. She then took a course of twelve lessens in Christian Science from Miss Van Wicken, and was to conclude the lessens.

TWO BROKERS RESCUED FROM EACH OTHER. There might have been a fistic encounter at the Con-soldated Stock and Petroleum Exchange yesterday if various circumstances hadn't intervened, the principal one being that there wasn't a collision. There are two Tolers in the board—Hugh K. and H. P. There are also two Underhills E. B., Jr., and Rawson. E. B. Under-hill declared to H. P. Toler that he had sold him some

Hugh Toler, assisted by some friends, dissuaded his brother from pursuing the warfare further, and peace was restored and the current warfare further, and peace was restored and the current of transactions in business resumed its customary smooth-

NOTES OF PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Joseph Brooks has persuaded William H. Crane into removing the curb on his ambition. At any rate he intends beginning his starring tour next sea with an elaborate revival of "King Henry IV.," in which he will play Sir John Falstaff. The production. which is to be " historically, pictorially and artistically correct," as Joseph says, will probably occur in Chicago. Mr. Crane will also do Falstaff in "The Merry wives of Windsor" later on, and by July 1 a new comedy by D. D. Lloyd is to be ready for him. Edwin Booth and Lawrence Barrett are to be en-tertained at Tuxedo Park later in the week by Pierre Lorillard and other members of the Tuxedo Club. HOPE FOR THE COPYRIGHT BILL.

THE MEASURE EXPECTED TO BE PASSED AT THE NEXT SESSION OF CONGRESS-LETTERS

OF APPROVAL.

The annual meeting of the American Copyright League was held at Mott Memorial Hall, No. 64 Madison-ave., yesterday. George Walton Green, secretary of the Executive Committee, read a report of year. He said that the Copyright bill had at last passed the Senate, and that had it not been for the precedence taken by the tariff debate a vote would have been taken on it in the House. He assured those present that the Executive Committee expected the measure to be passed in the early part of the next session of Congress. He said further that it was the recommendation of the committee that the previous policy of the League in aiming solely at the rights of American authors be continued.

Special mention was made of the fact that the authors' readings in Washington had been of great benefit in bringing the copyright subject to the notice the Congressmen themselves. The report, including an indorsement of the recommendations, was unantmously adopted. The League was also informed that a large number of Representatives in Congress had expressed their approval of the measure. Letters of encouragement were read from Senators Chace, Rhode Island, and Hoar, Massachusetts, and from Henry Cabot Lodge. James Russell Lowell was then reis demand the present price of lots of which they have all dudisturbed and legal occupation for twenty-three decreed president, E. C. OBITUARY.

DR. BENJAMIN J. McCANN. Dr. Benjamin J. McCann, a well-known physician of Brooklyn, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 1.244 Fulton-st., after a lingering illness. Dr. Mc Cann was thirty-six years old. He had recently been connected with the Brooklyn Board of Health, and previous to that appointment had acted as examining physician in the Department of Charities.

JOHN C. MEYER. New-Brunswick, N. J., Nov. 12.—John C. Meyer. age forty-three, of this city, the oldest son of the millionaire, Christopher Meyer, died at Atlantic City last night of pneumonia. He was manager of the New-Jersey Rubber Works in this city. He leaves a widow and two children. His estate is valued at about $2,000,000. shout $2,000,000s

He was educated at Poughkeepsie and East Hampton and was shortly afterward placed in business by his father, who died recently. In 1865 he became his father's father who died recently. In 1865 he became his father's assistant in the Star Linseed Oil Factory, situated on the present site of the rubber factory. His habits and training soon enabled him to master the details of his father's extensive business. He inherited most of his father's weath, estimated at $15,000,000. The estate is still unsettled and no accurate estimate of Mr. Meyer's interest in it can be given. He was married several years ago to Miss Davidson, daughter of John Davidson, of this city. Two children, both daughters, survive him. Mr. Meyer left a will which will be opened after the funeral.

Boston, Nov. 12 (Special).-Thomas Drew, widely known as an editorial writer and for his pr in the early anti-slavery movement, died suddenly this evening at his home in Dorchester. He was a native binding trade in this city, but did not follow it long. For a few years he was engaged in literary pursuits in Philadelphia, and later was a partner with Elihu Barrett in the publication of "The Christian Citizen" at Worcester. Afterward Mr. Drew became a partner with John M. Earle in publishing and editing "The Worcester Spy." Mr. Drew was private secretary to Governor Andrew for one year, and was sent South by the Governor to look after the Massachusetts sick and disabled soldiers. For a few years after 1872 he was an editorial writer on "The Boston Herald," Mr Drew and the late Adin Thayer chartered a train at Worcester and came to Boston during the Anthony Burns riot and participated in that memorable event.

A daily publication in this city yesterday had a third of a column of misinformation about what catted "Carnegie's Big Scheme." The article told of a kind of musical Aladdin's palace, of which Andrew Carnegie was to be the magical architect-a "grand conservatory" with an orchestra led by Walter Damrosch or Theodore Thomas. There was not a fact in the narrative.

ANOTHER CHALLENGE FOR THE AMERICA" CUP. From The Boston Herald.

From The Boston Herald.

The report that another challenge for the America cup will shortly be issued is again on the rounds, and as in other recent rumors to the same effect, the facts necessary to entitle the report to credence are lacking. A correspondent of 'The London Times' in Queenstown, Ireland, has heard that the Jamlesons, of irish whiskey and Irex tame, have been quietly building a large steel sloop, with the end in view of challenging for the America cup. Richardson, the designer of the Irex, is said to be the designer of the new production. The author of the story has even learned the fact that the intended challenger is to be named the Shamrock. Mr. Jamleson has more than once been reported to have designs on the cup, and it is barely possible that a challenge may, at some future day, emanate from the Royal Irish Yacht Club, of which he is a member. It would be very odd, almost indicrous in fact, if the same "secrecy" should be maintained in the construction of the Irish craft that the willy Scott pursued while the Thistie was on the stocks.

OFFICIAL RETURNS TABULATED. HOW THE LABOR PARTY VOTED ON ITS ELEC-

TORAL TICKET. The Republican National Committee has caused the official returns filed at Police Headquarters and signed by the inspectors in the several election districts to be opened and tabulated

It was known that the Labor party ran an electoral ticket having at its head their two electors at large, but bearing the names of the Republican electors other than Stranahan and Seward. There was also a similar ticket . with thirty-four of the Democratic electors upon it. Very few of the latter seem to have been voted. The result shows that of the Labor ticket with a portion of the Republican electors there were voted 1,708 ballots. The following table shows the result in detail. The vote of the Labor party is that for its electors-at-large:

THE "HOLD-OVER" REPUBLICAN CLERKS. Washington, Nov. 12 (Special).-President Cleve land is reported in various newspapers as being much chagrined by the fact that "hold-over" Republican clerks have taken part against him in the recent election and worked against his interests during the whole of his term. This the Executive resents as the basest ingratitude, as it has been through his own devotion to the Star-eyed Goddess of Reform that they have been permitted to remain in office during a Democratic Administration; such, at least, is the claim advanced just now. As a matter of fact, the number of Republican clerks who went home to vote appears to have been extremely small, while quite a number of them are credited with swelling the huge Democratic campaign fund to the tune of several thousands of dollars. The tenure of these ungrateful employes in case of Democratic success does not, however, appear to have been altogether secure and satisfactory, for it is currently reported that a list of four hundred of those gentlemen was prepared in the United States Pension Bureau alone, to be dismissed in the event of Democratic success.

WILL GENERAL NEWTON RESIGN? Among the rumors yesterday relating to changes in the city departments was one that General Newton had written his resignation as Commissioner of the Department of Public Works, dated January 1, 1889, on which day he would forward it to Mr. Grant, to be delivered as soon as the latter had taken the oath of office as Mayor. The other part of the story was that Mayor Grant would accept the General's resignation instantly and designate as his successor Thomas F. Gilroy, at present Deputy County Clerk. General Newton did not come to his office yesterday, but D. Lowber Smith said that he had heard the rumor, and had good reasons for believing it without foundation. He felt certain that the General would remain in office until the close of his term. May 1 next. Mayor-elect Grant and Mr. Gilroy were reticent as to what might be done if the Commissioner of Public works decided that he would tender his resignation.

NEWS FROM THE SUBURBS.

A NIGHT OF REPUBLICAN JOY. ILLUMINATED BUILDINGS AND MARCHING THOU-

SANDS AROUND NEW-YORK. Newark witnessed a fine spectacle last night. It was the Republican jubilee parade in honor of the national victory. One hundred thousand people crowded the streets to witness it, and the procestretched for several miles through thoroughfares of brilliantly flluminated and gayly decorated houses, and amid displays of fireworks. The impression of a stranger in the town last night would have been that Newark had gone overwhelmingly Republican. the uniformed clubs of the city and many of the townships paraded with full ranks, but their number was at least equalled by the citizens and trade organizations formed to take part in the parade. All these wore roosters on their hats and carried emblems or flags or decorated brooms. The right of the line was preceded by about 800 horsemen all wearing the roosters on their hats and bearing some emblem of victory. A log cabin drawn on a wagon attracted much attention. There were about 10,000 men in the line. No disturbance occurred during the parade. A few Democratic citizens decorated their dwellings. The Passale Republicans last night celebrated the victory in a style the little city had seldom seen be-The town was ablaze in every direction with filuminations and fireworks, and countless flags, brooms and roosters were waved on every hand. whole populace was in the streets. A parade in which about 1,500 took part marched through miles which about 1,500 took part marched through miles of streets blazing with light and fire. The joiliffcation wound up with a bartecue.

The uniformed Republican clubs and the citizen Republicans of Mount Vernon had a general torchight demonstration in recognition of the success of the Republican National ticket last night, in command of Captain John F. Luther as marshal and R. L. Wright as adjutant. They paraded through the several avenues and streets in East and Central Mount Vernon with music by the David's Island band and the Mount Vernon Zouave Drum Corps.

The Republicans of Rockville Centre, L. I., turned out in full force last night, dressed in uniforms, and paraded through the principal thoroughfares.

The Republicans of the IVth District of Jersey City will have a parade to-day to celebrate the victory of the Republican party.

The District-Attorney directed Lawyer Sherman to procure a warant for Davide's arrest. Mr. Sherman also served a summons on Lawyer Mctill in a suit for $10.000 damages for maliciously swearing out the warrant against Dudley.

Thirteen-year-old Willie Van Ness, the boy incen-diary of Plainfield, N. J., who was indicted last month was convicted of the crime in the Court of General Sessions yesterday. The boy lived with Drake and was a brother of Horace and Lewis Van Ness, who with John M. Jackson were convicted of a series of had been saturated with kerosene, and the boy after ward confessed to Chief of Police Carey that he had committed the offence, and a bottle which had contained the kerosene was identified by him. Willie afterward denied his confession. Foster M. Voorbees appeared as counsel for the boy. The defence was a denial and an attempt to show that Willie's confession was made under a hope of reward or release.

JERSEY CITY.

The Rev. Dr. J. Howard Suydam will lecture in the Park Reformed Church, Eighth-st. and East Hamilton place, this evening, on "The Visit of the Holland Society of New-York to the Netherlands." The election officers of the "Bell Tower" precinct of the 1st District, have got themselves into considerable trouble by refusing to accept the vote of Isaac F. Allman, of No. 310 Grove-st., on election day. Mr. Allman, when he went to the polling place, was astonished to learn that he had already voted. Some fraudulent voter or repeater had voted on his name. with black-bordered handkershiefs, but at the last moment they backed out. The Democrats, however, illuminated for the occasion, and the best of good feeling was shown.

Mr. Allman procured affidavits showing that he was not at the polls at the time he was said to have voted, but the election officers refused to allow him to vote. He has laid the case before the Grand Jury. Mr. Allman procured affidavits showing that he was

At the meeting of the Board of Public Works yeserday Commissioner Tumulty called up his resolut consent to the elevation of the Pennsylvania Rail-road tracks. Some discussion followed, but the matter was finally dropped. The chief engineer was directed to make a survey and to establish the lines of the ity's legislative grant in the south cove.

Michael Murray, age forty, a car driver employed by the Jersey City and Bergen Railroad Company, fell over the dashboard of his car on Sunday night nd was crushed so badly that he died a short time after being removed to the City Hospital.

Mayor Cleveland yesterlay sent a veto to the Board of Public Works of a resolution ordering the paymen of $1.648 80 on the contract for sweeping the streets He says the work is not properly done, and if active measures are not taken the dirt and mud will remain in the streets until spring.

NEWARK.

A plan to escape from the County Jail was dis covered by the warden on Saturday, and an investiga-tion showed that four burglars were the ringleaders. The prisoners had secured handcuff keys, and it was their intention to make a break while on the way to court yesterday to be sentenced.

VARIOUS NEW-JERSEY TOWNS.

HOBOKEN.-The identity of the woman who was found dead in the Secaucus swamps two or three identified the body as that of Mary Reilly, age sixty-five, of No. 42 Camden-st., Newark, and he received ssion vesterday to take it home. Mr. Reilly says no clew to the person or persons who robbed and murdered Matthew Ash last Wednesday night or Thursday morning. The finding of his coat and waistcoat in the raceway which empties into the river three lays after the finding of his body, is regarded as pointing to an attempt by the murderer to get rid of the evidences of guilt and also to make it appear that Ash fell into the raceway. . . . . The autopsy on the body of Abraham Winters, who died in the General Hospital, after telling a story about having been struck with a stone, showed a bad fracture of the skull. There is no clew to his assatlant, WEST ORANGE.-Mrs. Jane Hussy died on Saturday, age ninety-nine years and eleven months. She was a native of Ireland and came to this country twenty-six years ago. She was one of a family of five, her two sisters living to be 101 and 100 years old respectively.

GLOOM IN THE BIG ROTUNDA. THE CUSTOM HOUSE NOT CHEEKFUL NOW.

THE DEMOCRATS LOOKING ABOUT FOR BUSINESS

POSITIONS-A DISMAL PROSPECT. The Custom House has seemed in half-mourning since Wednesday. Every Democrat's countenance is at half-mast. If it had not been for the members of the Custom House Brokers' Republican Club, who have made the rotunda ring with the cruel reminder to the Democrats that they had only "Four! Four! Four months more!" of official life it would have seemed like a tomb. Even the members of the Civil ervice Examining Board wore anxious countenances.

The two deputy-collectors and scores of clerks who six months ago proved disloyal to the Republican party and joined Tammany Hall, and have since done political work in its interest, and who have sat complacently in their seats and followed the loyal Re publicans like ferrets in the cause of their masters-Magone and his supporters-seemed greatly troubled Their brows were corrugated with great wrinkles their jaws were set firmly together, their thin lips quivered and their eyes looked sad. They had learned that their "idol of destiny" was only a man of straw, and that the people had given a righte verdict upon him.

Any one going into the retunda about 3 o'clock on Thursday, Friday or Saturday afternoons would have concluded that the campaign was not yet over. One significant shout from the brokers was: Who deserted his party for position?

Deputy-Collector Rockwell

Who joined Tammany Hall ? Deputy-Collector Rockwell

One unfamiliar face on the south side of the cotunda was that of Deputy-Collector Davis, an imported Democrat from Binghamton. It is said that n his three years of official life he has not done one month of service for the Government altogether, unless he accounts his shrewd work in the public building project at Binghamton service for the Govern-He draws salary for thirty days in every month, however. On July 5 Secretary Fairchild granted him a leave of absence for thirty days to give him time to determine whether he would accept the presidency of an electric light company. But he lidn't drop from the service when his leave expired. On the contrary, he continues to appear at his desk about once a week, and draws his salary for the whole week. His son is clerk to the Custom House Civil Service Examining Board.

Another importation from up the Hudson is Deputy ollector John A. Mason, chairman of the Civil Service Examiners. He is a genial, pleasant man, and is one of the proprietors of a Newburg newspaper. He takes Reveland's defeat very much to heart, for his position nanual labor. It was brought out in the testimony before the Hale committee that Mr. Mason's father, who was once a preacher, is on the rolls of the Public Stores as a laborer; and that a sister is on the same rolls as "scrubber," with pay above that of the other scrubbers.

Will Collector Magone return to his law practice, or will he interest himself in raising gamecocks, ducks and fine cattle? Since he has been Collector he has imported some fine specimens of each, and sent them to his farm at Ogdensburg. Of course his law practice has been interrupted by his $12,000 a year salary as Collector, and his Ogdensburg office was closed as soon as his clerks could receive appoint ments in the Custom House. One of his clerks, Willlam Peters, is deputy-collector of one of the important divisions; and another, W. S. Kimball, draws a salary as private secretary to the Collector, while he is mak-ing himself familiar with the debenture bonds complications, his intent being to go into business connected with revenue law in New-York, after Mr. Magone sawmili at Ogdensburg. Anditor W. F. Creed was also brought down from the country and will join the guards in retreat in a few months.

Emanuel B. Hart, who is paymaster of a division, is really to be pitied. He is a ward of Tammany and that faction was a long time finding him a place He has been a faithful henchman, but age is against him, and he will be like a piece of cast-off clothing when he is dropped out.

Deputy-Collector Charles P. McCleiland, who struggled with his friends to get a bill through Congress to revive the office of Assistant Collector, that he might be appointed to a higher salary and a position next to that of Collector, will probably have to be satisfied with the amosphere of Yonkers and Liquidating Division, was formerly employed in a
